President's Message

By: Don Keopple II

Dear ILNA Members,

Hello all, it's been a long winter and spring is finally here, this is the time of year there are a lot of shows to attend. Springfield show is coming up and as always is sure to be a great one. Next up is Central States show in Rosemont April 17th-19th. This is a really exciting time in the coin business, as of today 3-14-08, gold closed for the first time in history at $1002.00 and silver is over $20. This has been a really busy year in the coin business and looks like no let up is in sight.

We still have not had any applicants for the ANA Summer Seminar this year and time is running out. If interested please contact me for more information.

ILNA board elections will soon be upon us. Anyone interested in running for the board please contact me or Michael Doran.

If you haven't checked out our web sight lately please do so. There has been some great changes made by our web master Mr. Z. Any comments, questions or suggestions about our web sight please forward them to Mr. Z.

Making Sense

By John D. Wright

This year should be easy to guess before we get to the coin stuff, but let's start off with some less-known tidbits about this fascinating year. Let's see how soon you can tell the year.

At least a half-million Irish die this year of starvation and hunger-related typhus. Several hundred thousand more emigrate, mostly to America.

The United States and Britain both lower tariffs on imports this year. Both countries will experience increasing benefits from this over the next fifteen years.

A "new planet beyond Uranus" has been hypothesized, its location and mass calculated, and when telescopes are turned to the calculated position, "Planet X" is discovered less than one degree from the predicted location. The new planet will be named "Neptune".

Elias Howe, the "father of the modern sewing machine", patents the first eye-needled sewing machine.

Nancy Johnson of New Jersey invents a portable hand-cranked ice cream churn.

Cookbooks of this year include The Young Housekeepers Friend, Miss Beecher's Domestic Receipt Book, and the ultimate of haute cuisine, Gastronomic Regenerator.

A Book of Nonsense is published in London and is an instant phenomenon. Everybody is crazy over the simple rhymes, called "Limericks".

Colleges begun this year include Buchnell University, University of Buffalo, Beloit College, Grinnel College, Madison University (now Colgate University), and Saint John's College (now Fordham University).

The Smithsonian Institution is founded by Congress this year with a bequest of 100,000 British pounds by James Smithson.

New York's Trinity Church is completed this year on Broadway opposite Wall Street. The spire of the new church is visible throughout the City. Grace Episcopal Church and Calvary Church are also completed this year in NYC.

This year Boston exporters send 175 US shiploads of ice to the far east, where silk is bought for sale to US merchants.

The first state in the US to abolish capital punishment does so this year. The state is Michigan.

Iowa is admitted to the union as the 29th state.

Panama is still a part of New Granada (Colombia). This year New Granada grants to the US rights of transit across the isthmus, but retains its own sovereignty over the area.

Brigham Young leads his band of Mormons westward from Nauvoo IL, with his announced destination as "Spanish territories beyond the western limits of the United States. This year the Mormon band reaches Omaha in their quest.

A treaty with Britain settles the claims on the disputed Oregon Territory. The border is set at 49 degrees north latitude, dividing the "joint claim" region nearly equally between Canada and the United States. The US/Canadian border has remained unchanged since then, except for the change of ownership of Alaska from Russia to the United States.

If a few of the items above have not yet given you the year, the next items should certainly do so.

The US President sends General Zachary Taylor to Texas with 4,000 men, which is half of the nation's military force. Taylor is ordered to advance to the Rio Grande and defend that as a US border. Mexico, which has always claimed that territory as theirs, attacks and kills a US reconnaissance party. Taylor retaliates in force and notifies Washington "Hostilities may now be considered to have commenced". The President announces to Congress that Mexico "has invaded our territory and shed American blood upon American soil". Congress declares war against Mexico and appropriates $10 million and 50,000 troops for that effort. Taylor battles his way southward into Mexico.

Samuel Colt vastly increases his firearm production as the US places large orders for revolvers for use in the Mexican war.

"Polk's War" is opposed by Senators JQ Adams, and A Lincoln. Lieutenant US Grant states "We have no moral right for this war". In general, the

Mexican war is supported by southern states as a means for expanding slave-holding territory. It is opposed by northern states for the same reason. Tennessee reaffirms its appellation as "the Volunteer State". The federal government has called for 2,800 troops from Tennessee. Forty thousand Tennesseans volunteer for the Mexican war.

But many of the US soldiers are unsupportive of a "war of aggression" – enough so to desert the US Army and join the defending Mexican Army. Most of these are Irishmen, treated as a lower class by their Anglo-American officers. The Mexicans organize these men (originally 50, growing to perhaps 500 of them) into a separate unit called "Los San Patricios", or the Saint Patrick's Battalion, under the command of John Riley. Riley, of County Galway Ireland, had deserted the British Army in Canada to join the US Army in Mackinac MI. Sent to Texas in 1845, he then deserted the US Army and joined the Mexican Army. The San Patricios under Riley will fight in every major battle of this war. We will hear more of them in the next installment of Making Sense.

US troops defeat Mexican forces near Las Cruces, completing their conquest of New Mexico.

California's "Bear Flag Republic" begins in Sonoma when US Army Captain John Fremont spreads a rumor that Mexico will soon be taking action against US citizens. Thirty-three US citizens revolt, capture and imprison the Commandante de California Nortena, and declare their independence from Mexico. US troops begin driving out all Mexican authorities and troops from California. US naval forces take Monterrey, San Francisco, Los Angeles, and San Diego. The 'Republic' is dissolved after only 25 days when the US claims California as a US Territory.

If the start of the Mexican War did not scream "1846" at you, then US history is not one of your stronger points. This year the four US mints struck nine of the ten denominations originally mandated by the coinage act of 1792. Half cents of 1846 are known only in Proof and there is strong evidence that none of the Proof-only half cents (1840-49 Small Date and 1852) were made before 1857. This might also include the 1831 and 1836.

In 1846 the mints at Charlotte and Dahlonega struck quarter eagles and half eagles only, and New Orleans struck all denominations down to the half dollar. This year is the first branch-mint dollar. With a mintage of only 59,000, the 1846-O dollar must have been hoarded or held in bank vaults as they are not overly difficult to obtain today. Most MS examples of this coin are heavily bagmarked.

The half dimes and dimes of 1846 are both among the keys of their series, with mintages of only 27,000 half dimes and 31,300 dimes. Nothing else is really remarkable about the silver or gold coinage of 1846.

Large cents of 1846 are readily found in all grades. Their date comes in three slightly different sizes, of which only a collector of large cents (such as myself) would care. All three are equally common. To tell the date-size of an 1846 cent at a glance, look at the final 6 (only). Tall-date cents have a wide-open mouth to the 6. The medium-date 1846 has a knob on the 6 and a slight opening at the mouth of the 6, while the small-date 1846 cent has no knob at all and the 6 almost closed. A recent Red Book may not help matters much, as the 2005 (58th edition only) Guidebook of United States Coins pictures two small-date coins for the "small" and "medium". Still, that is the sort of thing that keeps this hobby fascinating.

John D Wright is the author of "The CENT Book", which covers US cents of 1816-1839. He has collected US large cents for fifty years.
